[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

MANILA, April 10, 9:50 a. m.-[By Manila Cable.] The expedition of 1500 men under Maj.-Gen. Henry W Lawton, which started last night with the intention of crossing Laguna de Bay, capturing the town of Santa Cruz, on the eastern shore of the lake, and then sweeping the country to the south, consists of 200 picked sharpshooters, chosen from the various regiments; Hawthorne's mountain battery, Gates's headquarters; three troops of the Fourth Cavalry, unmounted, with bronchos, and Tappan's battalion of the Fourteenth Infantry, Linck's battalion of the First Idaho Intantry and Fraine's battalion of the First North Dakota Infantry, under Gen. King.

The flotilla of twenty canoes, towed by tugs and conroyed by the tugboats Laguna de Bay, Oesta and Rapidan, and preceded by the launch containing Gen. Lawton and Gen. King, started from San Pedro Macati, on the river Pasig, moving north toward the lake just as evening was setting in. It was a truly picturesque scene, The men were all in high spirits. They carried rations for ten days, with the lightest marching equipments.

Gen, Lawton's plan was to reach Santa Cruz this morning at daybreak, to capture or destroy any rebel gunboat or shipping, or take the town, and then to scour the country to the south of the lake, a distance not yet explored by the Americans. The tactics will be those of the old-time frontier fighting, and it is probable that the command will be divided into squads of twelve under non-commissioned

In Gen. Lawton's absence, the second division is temporarily commanded by Gen, Ovenshine, whose lines extend from the beach near Malate, south of Manila, to the shore of Laguna de Bay, beyond Pasig, a distance of about seven Private John T. McLaughlin, hand, miles. The withdrawal of the eighteen companies constituting the expeditionary force made a gap in the line from the beach to Culiculi, just southwest of San Pedro Macati, which was subsequently filled by the Fourth Regular Infantry. The rebels on the extreme right had evidently been informed of the withdrawal of the troops, and they attempted to sneak through after nightfall, but were met with a warm reception, and fell back in disorder on discovering that the line was still intact.

An Important Move. [ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, April 9 .- The War Department authorities look for important news from Manila tomorrow, announcing, in all probability, the capture of the city of Santa Cruz, a leading town in a country as yet untouched by the American forces and now in the hands of the Filipino forces. No reports of the movement of Gen. Lawton's men has been made to the War Department, but the Associated Press announcement occasioned no surprise, for the move is looked upon as one of the natural steps in Gen. Otis's carefully-laid plans against the insurgents.

Santa Cruz is a place of considerable importance, in several respects. It is the capital of the province of Laguna, and has a population, according to the best available information here, of considerably more than thirteen thousand persons. It is regarded as likely that Gen. Lawton already has gained possession of this stronghold, for it is but a short journey over the bay lagoon, a fresh-water sea which comes almost up to Manila itself, forty-eight miles away from Santa Cruz.

The details of the dispatch show that Gen. Lawton is essaying the formation of squads of twelve men each, and will make a thorough reconnoissance of the ground before Sacramento man perishes in a fire... making a definite attack upon the city. It is felt here that Empress for extravagance here would be only a show of resistance by the natives, and whether they actually surrendered the town or abandon it to the southward, the campaign against the place will serve as an object lesson of the determined policy of our orces in the islands.

Santa Cruz is apparently an opening wedge for the country beyond. Fram it lead highways in all directions to Manila, by going around the shores of Bay Lagoon, and to the important point of Batangas and the well-advanced province of Tayabaz, whose capital city is located ninety-one miles rom Manila. Gen. Lawton, however may not contemplate any material advance beyond Santa Cruz at this time, as the region to the south is a very broken country, covered with mounains, and the rainy season is coming on, so that his purpose may be merely o gain an advantage of our position for the future.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] WASHINGTON, April 9.—Justice tephen J. Field of the United States upreme Court, retired, died at his me on Capitol Hill, in this city, at vife and her sister, Mrs. J. C. Justice David J. Brewer, his nephew; Mrs. Edgerton of California; Mr. Lawton, his private secretary; Rev. Ed-ward Mott, rector of the Church of the Advent, and the family servants. He had been unconscious since Saturday norning, and death came painlessly. Ever since Justice Feld's retirement from the Supreme Court bench in December, 1897, he has enjoyed compara-tively good health, and belog relieved from the responsibilities which he had borne for so many years, he became more cheerful than formerly and eemed to enjoy the society of his friends and acquaintances more than ever before. All during the winter, when the weather was fair, it was his custom to take daily drives about the city or through the grounds of the Soldiers' Home, and always returned refreshed. About two weeks ago, however, he took a longer ride than usual in an open carriage, and contracted a severe cold, which rapidly developed the kidney troubles from which he had suffered, though but shirhtly, for some time.

Are a sease feadily yielded to treatment, and Thursday last he sat up for a long time and seemed quite himself again, but on Saturday morning a change for the worse took place, and about noon he lost consciousness. From that time he sank rapidly and expired at 6:30 o'clock this evening.

No arrangements have yet been made for the funeral, nor is it now known where he will be buried. It is probable that his remains will be taken to Stockbridge, Mass., where are buried his father and mother and his brothers, Cyrus, Dudley and Jonathan, two sis-ters and other members of the Field family. It is possible, however, that Mrs. Field may decide to take his re-mains to California, where a consider-able part of his active life was passed before President Linco'n appointed him member of the Supreme Bench.
Justice and Mrs. Field never had any children, and the only surviving mer per of his father's family is the jus-tice's youngest brother. Dr. Henry Field, the editor of the Evangelist,

During several years prior to his re-tirement from the bench, the justice's health at times seemed on the point of breaking, but he usually recovered promptly, and in a few days would mate with him knew his mental powers were becoming somewhat impaired. The themselves in a failing memory after his physical health seemed to improve a little.

HIS RECORD.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] WASHINGTON, April 9.—Steph John Field was been at Hadam, Ct. November 4, 1815. He was the son of David Dudley Field, and one of four brothers who became so fameus. David Dudley, Cyrus W., and Henry M. Field being the other members of the quartette that made their name well-known throughoute the world. His early byhood was spent at Stockbridge, Mass, At the age of 12, Stephen J. Field went to Smyrna, where his sister had married a missionary, the Rev. Josiah Brewer, who had undertaken an educational mission to the Greeks, and here acquired a knowledge of oriental languages. John Field was born at Hadam, Ct

Returning to this country, after two Returning to this country, after two and a half years, he later entered Williams College, from which he graduated in 1837 at the head of his class. He then went to New York, where he entered the law office of his brother, David Dudley Field. He was admitted to the bar, and became the partner in the firm, remaining as such for seven years. In 1848 he went to Europe, and spent some time there traveling. In November, 1848, he sailed for San Francisco, around Cape Horn and entered upon the practice of law in the occidental metropolis.

After a short time he moved to Marysville, a small mining camp, and became one of the founders of what afterward grew to be a thriving town. When the little city was organized.

Justice Field was elected the alcalde of the place. This office carried with it the dignity of Mayor and at the same time imposed all the duties of the bench. Here the future jurist dispensed justice and made his name widely known throughout the length and breadth of the growing commonwealth. He was fond of talking of his early days in California, and often said that the happiest days of his life were when he dealt out justice in Marysville behind a dry goods box.

Justice Field, in a sketch prepared by himself for the Congressional/ Directory, gave this brief outline of the duties of his office of alcalde:

"Under the Mexican law, the alcalde was an officer of limited jurisdiction, but in the anamalous condition of affairs he was called upon to administer justice, punish crime and to enforce police regulations until relieved by officers under the new constitution.

He was elected a member of the first Legislature of the State, and was mada a member of that body. He was influential in securing legislation favorable to the miners, and aided in the passage of laws regulating the civil-and criminal procedure of the State. At the close of the session, he returned to Marysville and devoted six years, to the practice of his profession. He was elected a judge of the Supreme Court of California in 1851, for the term of six years. In 1852, he became Chief Justice, succeeding Chief Justice Daylids. Terry. In 1863, President Lincoln appointed him Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, and he held that position until his retirement on December 1, 1897.

During the latter years of his service on the United States Supreme Court bench he was in very feeble health. His term was the longest in the history of the tribunal. The great Chief Justice, John Marshall, wore the ermine for a period extending over thirty-four years. It was the ambiftion of the late Justice Field to pass this record, and he succeeded in doing so by a few months. His friends, fearing that the strain of hard work would shorten his usefulness, advised him to retire from his arduous duties. But with indefatigable perseverance, he clung to his task until the latter part of 1897, when he had the satisfaction of having fulfilled the ambition of his life.

During that term of more than a third of a century he was concerned in some of the most important cases ever passed upon by the Supreme Court. Among the prominent decisions was the famous test-oath case, in which he gave the casting vote and wrote the opinion of the court annulling the validity of the "ironelad" oath. His dissenting opinions in the confiscation cases, the legal-tender cases and in the New Oricans slaughter-house cases, attracted the wides attention.

During the long service on the bench

the Governor of the State of California mo of the commission to examile the code of laws of that State.

In 1866 Williams College conferred upon him the degree of LL. D., and in 1869 the regents of the University of California made him a professor of laws of that institution.

In 1889, one of the most sensational events of the remarkably active and vigorous career, largely passed in new country, in procress of development, from a pioneer State to a highly-civilized community. brought his personality vividly before the public. Sarah Althea Hill Terry kad brought a famous suit against ex-Senator Sharon, a California multi-millionaire. Justice Field was on the bench. The outcome of the case was unfavorable to the plaintiff, and engendered in her fellings of hatred to the jurist. This culminated in her attempt to chastise the aged jurist in the dining hall or depot discovered as the control of the color of d jurist in the dining hall or depot ng-house at Lathrop, Cal., a rail-junction.

Terry, who had been her at-Judge Terry, who had been her at-torney in the suit against Sharon, and who afterward married her, inferfered, and when it seemed that he was at-tempting to do violence to Justice Field's person, David Nagle, a United States Marshal, drew a revolver and shot and killed Judge Terry. The dead Justice made the formal announcement of his resignation to his colleagues on the bench in a long letter, sketching his own and the court's history during his extended service. In one part he safd: "It is a pleasant thing in my memory that my appointment came from President Lincoln, of whose appointees I am the last surviving. LINCOLN (Neb.,) April 9.-Col. W J. Bryan today mailed his answer to the last letter received from Perry Belmont some weeks ago. The corre spondence thus far has dealt largely with the rival Jefferson dinners to be held in New York, but Bryan ignore that matter, and devotes his attention to the differences existing between himself and Belmont on questions of Democratic party policy. It's letter, part, follows:
"LINCOLN (Neb.,) April 8, 1898.

"Hon. Perry Belmont, New York— Dear Sir: Upon my return I found your letter containing the original letter and postcript given to the pres some days before. I cannot find any thing in my letter to which you car consistently object. "You began your speech in Madisor Square Garden on August 18, 1896, by saying that it was time for 'plain speaking,' and proceeded to accuse the Chicago convention of a 'betrayal' of the Democratic party. In your Brook.

"You ask, first, that I point out wherein your utterances are unpatriotic, un-Democratic, un-American and in conflict with the Democratic creed as set forth in Jefferson's first inaugural address. We have no accepted standard by which to determine whether a given opinoin is patriotic or American, but we have means of determining whether an opinion is Democratic and in accord with the teachings of Jefferson. I presume you use the word Democratic in the party sense, otherwise that term would be as difficult to define as 'patriotic' or .'American'.

"The right to determine what is Democratic in a party sense chiess."

and when it seemed that he was attempting to do voilence to Justice Field's person. David Nagle, a United States Marshal, drew a revolver and shot and killed Judge Terry. Nagle was acquitted.

There was, however, for many years an intense bitterness between the friends of the two factions, and for this reason Justice Field's family discouraged his discussion of California topics or the perusal of California newspapers.

Justice Field's retirement from the Supreme Court bench occurred December I, 1897, and Atty.-Gen. McKenna of California shortly afterward was named to succeed him. He tendered his resignation in April, 1897, to take effect December I. The President in his letter of acceptance of the resignation said: "Upon your retirement both the bench and the country will sustain a great loss, but the high character and ability of your work will live and long be remembered, not only by your colleagues, but by your grateful fellow-countrymen."

The dead Justice made the formal announcement of his resignation to his colleagues on the bench in a long letter, sketching his own and the court's history during his extended service. In one part he said: "It is a pleasant thing in my memory that my appointment came from President Lincon, or whose appointees I am the last curviving. [ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] LONDON, April 9.-[By Atlantic Cable. The Berlin correspondent of the Standard says:

"After receiving Mr. White, the United States Ambassador, and Sir Frank Lascelles, British Ambassador, last week, and explaining to them Germany's attitude regarding Samoa, Emperor William sent instructions to the German Ambassadors in London and Washington to the general effect that Germany considers the new government in Samoa illegal, and the action of the British and Americans a clear violation of the Samoa act.

"The report on the behavior of Adniral Kautz toward the German cruise Falke has given umbrage throughout the empire, and it is considered certain that, if the report is confirmed, the United States will readily admit Germany's right to satisfaction, and will repair Admiral Kautz's errors. It is hoped, however, that the accounts are exaggerated."

HAVANA, April 9.-[By West Indian Cable.] Secretary of Justice Lanuza will probably not comply with the request of Judge Ortiz of the Guadaloupe District Court, Havana province, to prosecute Gen. Ludlow, the military Governor, for "interfering to prevent Dr. Jolliffe and Mr. Barton, Americans, being kept incomunicado, as provided by the Spanish law."

If the matter is brought to an issue he question will be whether an American official has a right to issue an order contravening Spanish law, unless supported by decree of the Governor-General: Judge Ortiz insists that the incomunicado law is in full force, like all other Spanish laws, which Gen. Brooke's proclamation of January 1 affirmed were to be unchanged. Gen. Ludlow intervened in the case of Jolliffe and Barton because the Spanish officials refused to allow the attorneys and friends of the prisoners to have access to them. It was this condition of things that prompted his written instructions to Judge Ortiz not to apply the incomunicado rule to Americans

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]
PARIS, April 9.—[By Atlantic Cable.] Premier Dupuy, in the course of an important speech to his constitu-ents today, at Le Puy, said the situation both at home and abroad was eminently satisfactory. He referred approvingly to the recent agreements with Italy and Great Britain, and said France was "now free for industrial and commercial development, and a large field of colonizing." Reverting to home affairs, he said:

home affairs, he said:

"The agitations are only on the surface. Beneath are calm industry and security. The end of the Dreyfus affair appears to be in sight, and the complication will be unraveled by the Court of Cassation, whose judgment will be acknowledged by all.

"The government, however, attaches importance to reiterating its determination to repress all polemics which call the national army in question. As soon as the Court of Cassation has given judgment, the government will take the necessary measures to determine responsibilities and will act accordingly, if that should be necessary, but these acts and the punishment of individual faults will not affect the army, which is our hope for the future army, which is our hope for the future and the indispensable guardian of the constitution and the law."

Gen, Zurlinden Thought It Proved

Dreyfus's Guilt.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] PARIS. April 9.—[By Atlantic Ca-ble.] Continuing its publication of the evidence given before the Court of Cassation in the Dreyfus case, the Figare gives today the depositions of Gen. Zurlinden, Military Governor of Paris and Gen. Chanoine, formerly War Min he entered the Cabinet last affair, knew nothing of the Dreyfus affair, but the suicide of Lieut.-Col. Henry to study the dossier buts the suicide of Lieut.-Col. Henry provoked him to study the dossier, which convinced him that Dreyfus was justly condemned. These documents in the dossier proved, he declared, that the traitor belonged to the general staff. There was no malice in the designation of the culprit, and, therefore, the legend of the "entrapped Jew" must be set aside.

Gen. Zurlinden proceeded to show by Itechnical details that the particulars indicated in the Bordereau were highly important to a foreign nation. With reference to the phrase, "I am going to the maneuvers," in the Bordereau, he said that the military students were wont to attend the maneuvers, but on August 27. 1894, the day to which the phrase in the bordereau referred, they did not attend. This fact, he said, he regarded as having great bearing on the discovery of the author of the Bordereau.

Proof of the culpability of Dreyfus, he insisted, existed outside the depositions of Lieut-Col. Henry and Col. Paty du Clam, and he appealed to the court to reject revision which, he said, he would have demanded himself in the name of the army if he had had or did have, the slightest doubt of the guilt of Dreyfus. He knew nothing, he asserted, of the relations between Comte Esterhasy, Lieut.-Col. Henry and Col. Sanherr or of the commission of the secret documents to the court-martial in 1894, nor had he any knowledge respecting the correctness of such rumors. In concluding his evidence, he remarked that the whole army wished the fullest light to be thrown upon the affair.

Gen. Chanoine testified that he had examined all the dossiers placed at his disposal, and that they, in his judgment, established the culpability of Dreyfus. He also deposed that he had spoken on the subject with many persons who were acquainted with the circumstances of the trial in 1894.

MAD WITH JEALOUSY

Capt. Von Schmidt Kills His Divorced Wife and Himself.

ALAMEDA, April 9.-Capt. Edwar

ALAMEDA, April 9.—Capt. Edward A. von Schmidt, a San Francisco Harbor pilot and a prominent yachtsman, murdered his former wife and committed suicide in this city today. The tragedy, which was prompted by jealousy, was most brutal. On the last day of 1898, Mrs von Schmidt was granted a divorce on the ground of extreme cruelty, and the custody of their five children was awarded to her. After that the captain made frequent threats against her, and seemed insanely enraged at the result of the divorce suit. When he called at her home today, when opened the door. He had a pistol in one hand and a keen knife in the other. Without a word he made a lunge at her with the kife, inflicting a slight wound in the breast. Then he threw the pistol at a servant girl, who had appeared, and she fied in terror. No one witnessed the double tragedy which ensued, but when the neighbors, who were aroused by the servant girl's cries, reached the place, Von Schmidt lay dead in the back yard, with five stabs in his breast and throat, while a few feet away his divorced wife was breathing her last. She had three deen wounds, made by the knife, in her back.

Von Schmidt was known throughout the State and West as the son of the famous civil engineer of that name, who did much important work for the United States government in a part of which he was an associate. He had also directed part of the work of deepening the harbor of Oakland.

For several terms Von Schmidt served as commodore of the California Yacht Club. He was a Mason, a Native Son and a member of the Unitarian Club. His wife was a woman of slight physique, while he was 6 feet 3 inches tall and of massive build.

The weapon used by Von Schmidt was a dirk with a 9-inch blade, tapering to a point. The pistol he carried and which he hurled at Miss Thompson, the servant, was an English buildog of modern pattern, 44-caliber. The attack on his wife was most brutal for one of her ribs was cut in two and her right shoulder almost severed from the body. Less than a quarter of an hour before the killing. Von Schmidt visited Mrs. L. C. Johnson, a friend of the family, and said he desired a reconciliation with his wife before the fifteenth anniversary of their wedding, April 15. When she told him this seemed impossible, he broke down and cried.

On Friday last he made threats against Robert Eagleson, the man of whom he was jealous, and addressed to whom he left rambling letters of vague accusations.

Col. A. W. von Schmidt, father of the dead man, arrived on the scene a few moments after the tragedy, and took charge of the five little children, but refused to view either of the bodies.

He was, however, given the privilege of taking them out for a few hours twice a month. It was supposed his call today was for this purpose.

Three Thousand Sacks of Wheat in the Sacramento.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 9.—Over three thousand sacks of grain were lost in the Sacramento River last night. The steamer San José was on her way here with a barge in tow. On the barge were 4000 sacks of wheat for the Brit-ish ship Primrose Hill. The barge tilted over during the night and nearly tilted over during the night and nearly all the cargo went into the river. Some of it was recovered and put aboard the San José, and that vessel came on to San Francisco, leaving the barge half under water and tied up to the bank near Rio Vista.

During the run down the river the wheat on the San José began to swell and the bags burst. The grain ran all over the decks, and when the steamer reached the sea wall it had to be shoveled ashore. The portion saved is now only fit for chicken feed, so the entire barge-load of 4000 sacks is practically a total loss.

SACRAMENTO, April 9.—There was a small fire in a frame building on Front street at midnight last night, by which the interior of a room in the second story was burned, the damage being only a few dollars. This morning the body of Adolph Brodbeck, an elderly man who occupied the room, was found there by persons who had missed him.

Brodbeck was a native of Switzerland, and came here from Guatemala several years ago. He was an educated man, and held a position in a bank in Guatemala, but of late had been employed here as a sort of porter in a saloon. SACRAMENTO, April 9 .- There wa

The missing:
"JAMES SULLIVAN, wife and six children.
"The ice began moving at 7:30 o'clock in the evening, and continued flowing until 9:30 o'clock, when it formed a gorge. The Snyder party, noticing the backwater, started for the Northern Pacific tracks, hoping thus to escape drowning, but before they covered half the distance the water was waist deep, and they took refuge in a tree.

"O'Connor was the first to be washed from the tree, Mrs. Snyder the second, and Miss Wybacht third. A huge piece of ice struck the tree and broke it in two, carrying off Miss Reagan. It is thought that the family of James Sullivan, his wife and six children, were swept away by the overflow, as no trace of them can be found."

LATER DEVELOPMENTS. [ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

today found eight more persons who were victims of the overflow making twelve in all. They comprised the entire family of James Sullivan, wife and six children, whose residence is 200 yards from the nearest point of the Yellowstone River. When Sheriff Alken and Charles Parker crossed the river, amidst floating ice, they 'ound the Sullivan residence with doors and windows open and the entire family dead in the room.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] [ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

ANACONDA (Mont..) April 9.—Specials to the Standard from various parts of Montana show that the recent Chinook has made raging torrents of most of the rivers, in many cases breaking all records. The Yellowstone has caused the greatest loss of life and property. Ice jams have backed the water up at Glendive and Miles City. where the greatest damage has been done.

At Miles City the ice jammed at the mouth of Tongue River, forcing the water back until the entire south side of the city was under water. Seventy-five houses had to be abandoned, the people having to be rescued in boats, so quick had been the rise of water. Later in the afternoon the water broke over the track into Main street, which ran a torrent. Dynamite has been used, and it is supposed that the wash is over. The loss cannot yet be estimated. Washouts are reported all along the Northern Pacific, and passenger trains are stalled all along the line, but the details are slow in coming in.

A close watch is kept to prevent any of the details of the yacht's construc tion becoming known, and the two men, whose actions aroused suspicion had been watched for several days.

They were constantly afloat, having hired a skiff in the vicinity of the shipyard, ostensibly for the purpose of dahing. fishing. They were watched when they launched the skiff before dawn Sunday. Eventually they landed at Thornycrofts, and one of them stole lose to the screen hiding the Sham-ers pounced upon them. They were questioned and searched, and were found to have a skeleton of the yacht plans, which were marked where dimensions were to be inserted. The men were taken to the local police station where they were ques-tioned again. They gave their names taken to the local and addresses and were released. The amera and plans were retained by the police.

Company, became unmanageable this afternoon, owing to a treacherous current, and the high wind prevailing, and struck the dam. The vessel careened, almost to toppling over, but righted up again and soon settled down to rock bottom. The water rushed into her hold through a large, jagged hole aft of her boilers. A 16-inch pine derrick pole, supporting the staging, broke intwo, and the staging went overboard with a crash.

It was a miracle that several of the crew were not killed or injured. As it was, not a soul of the 109 on board were hurt in the least, some not even getting their feet wet. The life-savers responded with the greatest alacrity, with all their lifeboats, and were beside the ill-starged vessel almost instantly. With two crews ferrying from the boat to the shore, all the passengers were soon brought to terra firma, and the members of the deck and cabin crew were carried over.

The Speed was on her way to New Orleans, and carried 450 tons of miscellaneous freight. It is thought that at least three-fourths of the Speed's value will be saved, while the actual loss on the cargo will not be over $1000. The Speed is valued at about $25.00. She lies upon the rocks, with the water over her main deck amidships.

As a Vagrant He Will Be Treated for His Habit at the City Jail-Vic-tim is Well Educated and Highly Connected.

The awful desperation to which the ouchingly demonstrated when George Herbert was arrested by Officer J. M. The man was in a pitiable condition at the time, due, according to the ofer, who took him to the Police Sta on, to overindulgence in hypo lermic injections of morphine and cocaine combined. He is confined at the City Jail on a charge of vagrancy. and his arrest marks the beginning of the end of an effort to reform him.

It is said by the officers that Herbert has been treated several times for his habit, but the condition in which he was at these times made a cessation of the injections dangerous and each attempt has been only a and each attempt has been only a failure. Herbert is well-connected, having a mother and sister in the city who move in good circles and are highly respected. Their son and brother has a more than ordinary education, and has only fallen to his present condition through the use of the drugs. On this account several of the officers have been planning for several weeks a scheme whereby the young man (he is less than 25 years old) might be cured of his eraving for the injections.

To this end Officer Baker and Deputy Constable Lemon secured a promise from Herbert that he would visit the Police Station voluntarily to discuss the advisability of being arrested as a vagrant, that he might be cured of his habit, while under the care of a physician at the City Jail. Herbert, the officers say, promised to call at the physician at the City Jail. Herbert, the officers say, promised to call at the station Saturday, but broke his word, and falled to appear. Beker found him derive this morning and arrested him. Herbert, it is averred, took a large plece of window glass from his pocket, and, biting off a piece of it as large as the bowl of a teaspoon, said he would swallow it and end his life rather than go to the Police Station. He was in earnest, and, when Lemon threatened to strike him in the face if he did not spit the glass out. Herbert is said to have replied "Strike ahead." He started to chew the glass, and would have swallowed it, had not the officer selzed him by the throat and choked him until excruciating pain made him spit the glass out.

had not the officer seized him by the throat and choked him until excruciating pain made him spit the glass out. Then he started to cry, and was so nervous that he shook like a leaf. He pleaded for the privilege of going to a drug store for an injection, and was so absolutely miserable that the officer granted the request, and bought him three and a half grains of morphine and cocaine together, which he injected into his arm. The "dope" quieted his nerves, and he accompanied Lemon to the Police Station without further objection. He was charged with vagrancy, and will be given an opportunity to reform, or, perhaps, be made to do so, if he refuses to act voluntarily. It is said that Herbert contracted the drug habit while taking morphine to relieve rheumatic pains.

IN THE OIL FIELDS.

DRILLING IN THE LOS ANGELES FIELD WITHOUT RESULTS.

Satisfactory Reports from Fuller-ton - Santa Fe Drilling Four Wells-Complaints About Quality and Price of Gasoline-Summer-land's Oil Yield Increasing.

With the exception of the vetoing by the Mayor of the ordinance passed by the City Council reducing the Westlake protective district below the 1600-foot limit, the past week was devoid of any exciting features in local oil affairs. A considerable amount of drilling is still going on in different parts of the field, but no strikes amounting to anything have been made. The Yukon Oil Company is down 1025 feet in the well they are sinking near the junction of Miramar and Alvarado streets, and are going deeper. Daggett & Fletcher are putting down a well just south of the Yukon's, and are now down 950 feet. The prevailing opinion is that drillers will pay dearly for any oil they find in that locality, drilling being very costly. There is no likelihood of encountering oil short of 1200 or 1300 feet, and through all that depth it is hard drilling, to say nothing of difficulties to be emcountered in the shape of cavings and water.

Reports from the Fullerton field are of a water.

Reports from the Fullerton field are of a satisfactory nature. The Santa Fé people are drilling in four holes. In wells Nos. 21 and 13 they are down into the sand, and when they are through it they look for good oil. They also report good progress in wells Nos. 2 is down over 750 feet, with fine prospects. The Rex people are down 350 feet in their No. 2 well, and are sanguine that this well will make as good a showing as No. 1 did, in which light-gravity oil was struct, and which yielded an average of 10 barves, and which yielded an average of fifty barrels are considerable time, and is still puny for a considerable time, and is still puny for a considerable time, and is they do nousekeepers in Los Angeles over the poor quality of gasoline now being sold, and over the further fact that they have to pay 30 cents a five-gallon can more for it than they did a month ago. The price now charged is $1.15 a can, whereas a month back it was selling for $5 cents a can. While it may be impossible to make laws governing the prices for gasoline, there should not be any difficulty in respect to the officials of the city seeing that the quality of the erticle sold is such as is not dangerous to life and property.

The Off Crude Oil Company of Los Angeles, which lately leased a tract of oil land adjoining that of the Home Oil Company at-Whittler, has got its first derrick in place, and is ready to begin drilling.

As evidence that the yield of oil in the summerland district is increasing, the Santa Barbara Herald cites the shipment from that district of eighty carloads of oil during last March, besides three tank wagons running daily to Santa Barbara.

According to the Ontario (San Bernardin county) Record, it is quite possible that the streets of that city are advocating it as the most effective means of keeping the streets of that city

HAD FITS, BUT DENIED IT.

Fred Hoffman Found Partially Demented at River Station.

Fred Hoffman was found in a fit at River station at 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon by Officer Burt Smith, and was sent to the Receiving Hospital for medical treatment. When Police Surgeon Hagan reached the hospital, he found Hoffman apparently well and found Hoffman apparently well, and that individual denied that he had had a fit. Dr. Hagan dismissed the patient from the hospital, but Sergt. Smith re-fused to release him and ordered him

Officer Smith said the man's mind was wandering when he found him, and that he told a rambling story of his was wandering when he found him, and that he told a rambling story of his wanderings during the last few months. When he revived from the fit, after the officer had thrown water in his face, Hoffman spoke a few words, and then swooned again. Hoffman says he has been on a protracted spree until Saturday, when he stopped drinking and started for San Francisco, via the box-car route. He failed to catch a train at River station and lay down to sleep. He does not remember what happened to him after that until he swoke up yesterday afternoon and found the officer bending over him.

He expressed a desire to make another attempt to reach the northern city, and would have been released, as he seemed perfectly rational a short time after entering the hospital, had it not been for the fact that Sergt. Smithhad formerly been acquainted with his family, and deemed it advisable to keep him over night.

Hoffman's home is at Macomb, Ill., where Sergt. Smith formerly lived. The sergeant says Hoffman's father is a weil-to-do harness manufacturer of the Illinois town, and will doubtless be glad to learn of the whereabouts of his son,

The Present Prospect.

H. A. GHSON addressed the meeting of the Disturgent Breatherhood Sun, and the subject "The Present Prospect." He said:

The "are men in the world with the said of the said of the sun and Into a Carriage.

Mrs. H. E. Eustace, 65 years old, who lives on East Ninth street, near Mrs. H. E. Eustace, 65 years old, who lives on East Ninth street, near Lemon street, was thrown from her carriage and severely injured bye colliding with a Maple-avenue street car at the corner of Maple avenue and Ninth street shortly after 7 o'clock last evening. The patrol wagon removed the injured woman to the home of her son, J. M. Eustace, No. $16 Birch street, where Dr. Ainsworth was summoned to attend to her injuries, Mrs. Eustace was in such great pain when the physician arrived that it was impossible to determine the exact nature of her injuries. She was given an opiate to quiet her. The woman was driving east on Ninth street and was just crossing the street car track, when a south-bound Maple-avenue car turned a slight curve just north of Ninth street. Motorman Tudor saw the carriage in front of his car, and seeing that he could not stop in time to let it cross, shouted to Mrs. Eustace to hurry. The words had hardly left his mouth when the car crashed into the Fear wheel of the carriage. Mrs. Eustace was thrown to the ground, her horse was knocked down, and the carriage was partially demolished.

Tudor and Conductor King, who demoished.

Tudor and Conductor King, who was in charge of the car, carried the woman into the home of C. C. Byrne, at No. 404 East Ninth street, and Dr. Alnsworth was called. Before the physician arrived the patrol wagon was sent for, and it carried Mrs. Eustace to her son's home. The officials of the street railway company refused to talk about the accident last evening, but several persons who witnessed it say that the electric lamp at the corner of Ninth street and Maple avenue had not been lighted, despite the fact that it was after dark.

"Present Day, Needs," yesterday. He said: "If there ever was a time, more than another, when truth, plain, unvarnished truth, should be proclaimed, it is certainly needed in the last decade of the nineteenth century. "In the world of theology, what is more needed today than the plain, simple truths, uttered by Him, who was God manifest in the flesh. In this day of trusts and monopolies, is there not a need of the truth, the warning voice of Him, who says: 'I will be a swift witness against those that oppress the hireling in his wages,' Malachi iii, 5. In these days of liberal thinkers, false prophets and vain agnostics; in these days of the higher critic, wise in his own conceats; in these days of erroneous teaching, when state criticisms of Paine, Ingersoll and others are being rehashed by college presidents, it is high time that the apostles of divine truth should speak forth. In these days of divorces, there is present need of divine enlightenment. Hearken: Population increased in ten years 60 per cent; divorce, 156 per cent. What does the word og God declare? Whosoever shall put away his wife, saving for the cause of fornication, causeth her to commit adultery, and whosoever shall marry her that is divorced committeth adultery, what is the present need? That Protestant ministers like the Roman Catholic priests shall refuse to remarry them.

"The times demand living epistles of our Lord Jesus Christ. Men, who believe the Bible, who take God at His word, who obey the divine injunction, 'Be ye doers of the word and not hearers only, deceiving your own selves,' James I, 22."

The Ascension.

VESTERDAY morning at the Pico Heights Methodist Church, the pastor. Rev. Dr. W. R. Goodwin, announced as his text a part of the 51st verse of the 24th chapter of Luke, "He was parted from them and carried up heaven," and spoke, in part, as

into heaven." and spoke, in part, as follows:

"The ascension of Christ was a necessary conclusion of His earthly mission. for His work here being accomplished. He was neded in heaven as our High Priest and advocate with the Father. His ascension was visible and was not a type of His second coming. After taking away all of the poetic imagery of the passages of the Bible that seem to teach a literal second coming of Christ, we find that's He comes to each of us when death ushers us into His presence. He ascended while bestowing blessings, His whole life was a blessing. for He constantly gave gifts unto men. The Holy Ghost came in His stead, for had He remained, only those about Him could have felt His influence, while now all can feel the power and presence of the Holy Spirit. As He ascended when life's labors were ended, so shall we ascend, if we are His real followers, and thus we shall be friends with the Lord."

The sermon had reference to the special meetings to be held under the auspices of the church during the next two weeks. He said, in part:

"No condition in life can be so favorable that a neglect of God's commands will not, soonor or later, end in disaster. If history teaches anything, regarding church or state, it is "that righteousness exalteth a nation," and that all the nations that forget God 'shall be turned into hell. "The result of neglecting God's conditions, the prophet likens to 'fallow ground.' This is a negative wrong, but it may result in a great sin. Neglect the slaws of health and sickness results. It was only a negative wrong, which was the cause of the spread of the plague in our city.

"This negative wrong, by means of which man seeks to be righteous, by doing no positive harm, is the sin of our day. The fundamental principle of socialism is reactive against this policy. It seeks, through law, to requiremen to perform positive mental services. Whether or not it can be worked out as a political ideal, it was, nevertheless, the ethical ideal of Christ. upon which to base what we have to say, and what we shall do in these short papers is simply to expand and illustrate this text.

The city referred to is Bruges in Flanders, at that time the possession of the dukes of Burgundy. Bruges was the seat of government of the dukedom, and a great center of trade and commerce; also, of literature and bookmaking. The "blessing" referred to is, of course, the art of printing, which art Caxton had recently learned in Bruges.

The history of the invention and early practice of the art of printing is obscure and uncertain. At one time—not so very long ago—many myths and traditions clustered round, the subject, and were unquestioningly believed in. The researches of learned and painstaking scholars have in recent years disproved most of this traditionary and mythical bre, but unfortunately research has not yet been able to establish beyond controversy much positive knowledge in the matter.

The place where printing was first practiced with success, the place that first acquired a reputation as a seat of the earl, the place from which principally the art spread to other cities in Europe, was Mayence, on the Rhine in Germany, and John Gutenberg-of-Mayence is generally thought to be the world's first great printer. Closely associated with Gutenberg in the early days of the art were two other citizens of Mayence. Fust and Schoeffer. The earliest printed document that has come down to modern times—that is, the earliest with a date affixed to it—is an "induigence" printed in 1454. Police Officer Talamantes had a lively Police Officer Talamantes had a lively tussle with an insane woman in the Chicago lödging-house, on Los Angeles street yesterday afternoon, and the same experience was undergone by Matron Gray at the Police Station a few minutes later. Talamantes was attracted to the lodging-house by the shouts of the woman, who was proclaiming at the top of her voice that she was a second Lord. She imagined that she was being persecuted, and was raving in her room, none of the inmattes of the house being able to quiet her.

She refused to leave the room, but insisted on telling the officer half in English and half in Swedish that she was the Redeemer, come to judge the world. She made frequent efforts to get away and alternately pleaded and threatened to secure her release. After considerable argument Talamantes in duced the woman to go out with him, but she did not consent until be consented to be the prisoner and to her being the arresting officer. She started with him toward the street, in the mean time declaring that he was her prisoner. They had hardly reached the foot of the stairs, when she again rebelled and tried to scratch and bite him. Large was "a mercer and the son of a mercer," and the fact that Caxton was received into his house and became a member of his household shows that he was a lad of good social position. A fellow-apprentice, bound upon the same day as Caxton himself was bound, was Large's own son.

In 1441 Large died and in the same year (probably) Caxton went abroad and settled in Bruges. He was not freed from his apprenticeship by his master's death, but the particulars of his service as an apprentice abroad, as well as much of his subsequent life, are unknown. It is known, however, that in Bruges he became an influential and trusted representative of Eng. lish commerce. English trade in foreign parts was in those days principally carried on by a chartered company known as the "Merchant Adventurers" of the "Merchant Adventurers" the mercers were the principal constituents. Caxton, who soon received the freedom of the Mercers' guild, in time became the head of those "merchant adventurers" that were doing business in Bruges, or, as it was styled, the "Governor of the English matron, put a muff on the insane woman's hands. This was, perhaps, as honorable a public service as a man of Caxton's social standing could possibly obtain, for the commercial interests of England in Flanders were at that time her chief. In March, 1469, while he was still "Governor of the English nation" at Bruges, Caxton began a work which, though it was only undertaken as a labor of love by him, was destined to prove an epoch-making event in the development of English thought and the world's civilization—the translation into English of the "Histories of Troy."

OMAHA (Neb..) April 9.—A. J. Smith, registering at the Millard Hotel from Sait Lake City, committed suicide in his room early this morning. The man was discovered at 5:30 o'clock by a hall boy, who saw Smith lying on the bed dressed. By his side on a chair was a small bottle of chloroform and a package of cyanide of potassium, the contents of each of which had been partly used.

On a small table in the room were three letters, one to the hotel proprietor, enclosing money to pay his bill and containing instructions for the disposition of his body and effects. The second letter was directed to the Omaha Medical College, bequeathing his body to that institution. The third letter was a brief one to the chambermaid of the hotel, inclosing a tip of $1$ for taking care of his room.

Saturday morning the Chief of Police received a telegram from W. A. Snyder of Fort Collins. Colo., asking if A. J. Smith had killed himself at one of the hotels. Nothing more was heard about the matter until this morning, when Smith's death was 'reported.

From the foregoing it will be seen that the art of printing had been established in Mayence twenty years before the date when, according to our text. Caxton left Bruges for his native country. During these twenty years the art had spread from Mayence far and wide. It had been established in Cologne, Rome, Venice, Paris, and, in fact, in most of the cities of Europe. Caxton learned the art of printing in Bruges from Colard Mansion, a famous calligraphist, or manuscript-writer of Bruges. The date at which Mansion first set up his press is unknown, but it is supposed to have been about 1472 or 1473. Mansio is knowledge of the art was not obtained from Mayence or 1473. PLAYING WITH FIRE.

A dispatch from New York, of Friday's date, mentions the failure of a prominent Stock Exchange firm, and states that there has been some thing like a panic in Wall street, resulting in a big slump of industrial stocks, with much excitement on From Chicago it was also reported that great excitement prevailed on the stock market, stocks be ing offered for a time almost regardless of price.

In view of the extraordinary and unreasonable development of industrial combinations, in the shape of trusts, during the past six months, it is not at all surprising that there should be something like a scare on the stock board. The wonder is that something of this kind has not happened earlier. The craze for the com-bination and consolidation of almost every possible kind of industrial enterprise is something unprecedented in the financial history of the world. An eastern financial paper, the United States Investor, shows that the capitalization of companies organized in less than eighteen months exceeds $4,000,-

There has never been anything like this before. Perhaps the nearest approach to it was in Germany in 1897 and 1898, when new companies were formed with capital equivalent to $1,170,000,000, but the United States has more than quadrupled that record. It is, of course, impossible to estimate, with any approach to accuracy, what percentage of this enormous amount represents actual tangible assets, but as the United States Investor says, if this could be accomplished it would, undoubtedly, be a startling revelation to those who have put their money into these concerns. Whatever may be said in favor of trusts, by those who are engaged in forming them, it cannot be denied that they are primarily stock-jobbing schemes. Before the craze became general in this country, it was epidemic on the other side of the Atlantic, where an operator named Hooley gained much notoriety as a promoter of such schemes. Hooley got into the bankruptcy court, and the trial disclosed a peculiar condition of affairs prevailing in English financial circles, where it has been the custom to pay vast sums to impecunious members of the nobility for the use of their names in connection with new stock-jobbing schemes. It is true that we have no members of the nobility in the United States to sell their names to boost doubtful financial transactions, but for all that, the practice is by no means unknown on this side of the water There are, unfortunately, plenty of men to be found here who regard their good name as a proper cash asset. A writer in the United States

Investor says: belief that most of the trusts so far organized in this country are pro-moters' trusts, pure and simple. Cer-tain lawyers have made a business of working up trusts, enormous profits being at stake for them. It is not good form for a legal practitioner to go about inciting people to institute suits at law; but it is a perfectly con rect procedure for him to go to the leading people in any particular industry, and ask to be allowed to work up a 'deal' for them. The trust movewe doubt not, had its origin in have been assiduously at work pou ing oil on the fire from the very start.
It is important to keep this fact in mind, because some persons labor under the impression that the sudden nd marvelous growth of trusts in the last year or two is due to natural causes. Natural causes have made such a movement possible, but the greed of the promoter has been the

In confirmation of this view of the case, a Pennsylvania paper recently stated that a leading trust company of New York was offered $200,000 Rocky Ford. Colo., seed. They estimate that they can have melons in St. Louis and Chicago two months before the Colorado product is ready to give the backing of its name to a for shipment."

While our brave soldier boys are ombating an unhealthy climate and Mauser bullets in the Philippine Islands, and doing deeds of valor that excite the admiration of the civilized world and win hearty recognition from foreign nations, it is certainly not only surprising but most discouraging and unpleasant to read these contin ued scoffing criticisms which emanate from New England, the birthplace of the great American nation which is now taking its proper position among the great countries of the earth.

The latest flippant observation of this kind is credited to a prominent Boston lawyer, who, in pleading for Aguinaldo and his followers, is quoted as saying: "We are giving hell to a people who have never injured us or violated any law of nations, or committed any other offense than to set up an independent government and to seek to found a republic upon the best models." Commenting upon this remark, the American Cultivator, with much pertinence, says:

"Really, was it no injury, after he had persuaded American officers to take him back to the island that he had left when he received a bribe $800,000 from Spain, for him to raise an army to attack those who had thus benefited him? Is it according to the law of nations for him to allow his troops to fire upon unarmed men bearing a flag of truce? Does that law sanction issuing orders to massa-cre upon a certain date all the white inhabitants, men, women and children, in a large city? Is it no offense to behead, without the form of trial, an officer who ventures to suggest a possible surrender to a force su-perior in numbers and in military ability? We doubt if the honorable gentleman could obtain a verdict of 'not guilty' of violating the law of nations, or any other offense for his clients, before any fair-minded jury.

MORE EXPLANATIONS NEEDED.

Americans have been willing to a cept the explanations of Germany that the apparent complications between German war vessels and the American forces at Manila were all based upon a misunderstanding of facts. We have since read how boxes of ammunition have been found in the rebel camps marked "Made in Germany." Possibly this will also be explained to our satisfaction, but it is difficult to see how the Germans can possibly explain away the actions of their repesentatives in Samoa. Whenever unfavorable dispatches have been published in regard to the attitude of Germany toward the United States, it has been the habit of German sympathizers to claim that the information has come from prejudiced sources, having been cooked up in England for the purpose of making trouble between the two coun tries. This, certainly, cannot be said in regard to the dispatch published in THE TIMES of Saturday, giving extracts from a letter received in San Francisco from an officer of the cruiser Philadelphia, now at Samoa. The name of this officer is not given but it is stated that he is absolutely reliable, and would make no false statements. The writer of this letter asserts, absolutely, that ammunition had been sent to the rebels from a German gunboat, while empty shells have been found of German manufacture, and of the same kind used by the gunboat. Under the terms of the Berlin treaty it is a crime to furnish arms and ammunition to the natives

Another point made by the writer of the letter is that after the revolutionists on shore had been shelled by the ships, they always took positions in front of the German consulate or German buildings, while several English sailors were killed and wounded by shots fired from a German hotel the proprietor of which is now in custody. It certainly appears to be about time for the Germans to do a little more explaining in regard to the attitude of their representatives at Samoa, which is in such marked contrast to the conduct of the British Protestations of friendship and good will are all right, in their way, but we should like to see them occasionally backed up by actions.

A Kansas paper sagely observes that "when a Pop. takes his hand from the plow and puts it to the statute-book, the weeds of folly are almost sure to choke out the seeds of justice and commonsense." This observation is based on the operation of the new law in Kansas which provides that uncollectable judgments or individuals on behalf of the State shall be sold at public auction. A case of this kind occurred in Cowley county recently. The sale brough $200, and the bill for advertising in was $1450, leaving a deficit of $1250 ico is because there has been lack of for the taxpayers to make up. Populistic experiments in the science of law-making are expensive, but the people of some States appear to think they are necessary to the public weal

Tapp, the Salvation Army man, is (or was) a candidate for the mayoralty of Wichita, Kan. He proposes to reform the wicked ways of the city, and some of the regulations which he would put in force are as follows Every policeman shall carry a Bible and stop swearing; every session of the City Council shall open and close with prayer; every Sunday divine service shall be held in the City Hall and all public officials must attend; girls in bloomers are to be fined $5 for a first offense and to be put in jail for a second; the city shall pay street-car fare for all who wish to at tend church Sundays, and every poor person is to be supplied with drugs and medicines free of charge."

The time may possibly come when universal peace will brood like a gentle spirit over the world, but that time has not yet arrived by a long shot. Turkey has been engaged in BARRETT'S LECTURE. war thirty-eight years of the present century-considerably more than onethird of the time. Spain comes next, with thirty-one years of war; France has had twenty-seven years; Russia, twenty-four; Italy, twenty-three; England, twenty-one; Austria, seven-teen; Holland, fourteen; Germany, thirteen; Sweden, ten; Portugal, ten, and Denmark, nine. Even the peaceful and peace-loving United States has had something like a dozen years of war during the century.

According to the Miami (Fla.,) Republican, the Kansas volunteers cut a pretty wide swath among the feminine portion of the Cuban popu lation. That paper says: "Five of the Kansas City, Kan., boys married Cuban wives and brought them home They all have either a small lemon or orange grove, while one of the Pittsburgh, Kan., boys captured a dusky maiden who has a 600-acre coffee plantation. Sixteen others married Cuban girls, but they drew blanks, and when the troops came home they left them to shuffle for

The faculty for "pushing things" is active with our forces in the Philippines, and it appears that the recalcitrant natives are to be given rest until they throw down their guns and agree to come onto the reservation and behave themselves. That the accomplishment of this end will be achieved in due time is as certain as that sun shines, water runs, and that Yankee soldiers shoot with a deadly aim.

The Bounding Billow is the title of a little magazine "published at inter-vals on the United States flagship Olympia." THE QUESTION OF CAPABILITY FOR SELF-GOVERNMENT.

Aguinaldo and the Native Govern ment-Mess Made of Attempted Diplomacy by Agents of the Government.

MANILA (Luzon,) March 11, 1899, I send The Times further extracts from the recent interesting lecture of Hon. John Barrett, formerly United States Minister to Siam, delivered before the Shanghai General Chamber of Commerce on the 12th of January: AREA, FORMATION AND CLIMATE.

A conservative estimate of the area of the Philippines is 115,000 square miles, or larger than Italy or Korea, of which area the principal and most northerly island, Luzon, comprises approximately 50,000, or nearly the same as Illinois in the United States; and Mindanao, the second and most southerly, covers about 30,000 square miles. Of the 1000 or more islands that constitute this resourceful archipelago only about twenty-five are large and prominent. After Luzon and Mindanao the chief in order of importance are Panay, Negros, Cebu, Leyte, Samar, Mindoro, Musbate, Bohol, Palawan and Sulu (all of which I call to your attention on the map.) Aside from Manila the only other ports of any importance are Ilolio in Panay, Cebu in Cebu, and Zamboanga in Mindanao. The charmed terms of the Philippines which you would assume the air of familiarity, are, for islands, Luzon, Panay, Mindanao and Sulu; for cities, Manila, Ilolio, Cebu and Zamboanga.

[Hear! hear!] BEAUTIES OF THE SEA AND LAND.

But, seriously, if any of you ever seek to make a cruise through new waters that will equal or surpass in atwaters that will equal or surpass in attractive water scenes and landscapes the glories of the Japanese or Korean inland seas, and rival the most beautiful portions of the Mediterranean and coast of Norway, all the time reminding you that their shores form islands whose rolling uplands and well-verdured mountains are everywhere interspersed with rich and fertile valleys, fit for the garden of Eden, bearing splendid crops and giving way here and there to more rugged portions, where mineral wealth abounds, go, I say, to the Philippines and slowly make your way from Manila to Zamboanga. LUZON AND NIPPON COMPARED. You can pardon my praise of the islands when I state that, comparing my observations of the interior of Luzon with that of Nippon, the princi-pal island of Japan, where I have also traveled extensively and off the beaten tracks, the advantage is in favor of Luzon.
In fact, nowhere in the United States

In fact, nowhere in the United States or Europe is there an equal area more varied in conformation, or more uniformly broken with lowland and upland, both wooded and watered, more fertile and resourceful, more suited to support a great population, and still more capable of development. in the cities, such as Manila, it is much like Hongkong, Bankok and Calcutta, except that Manila's location on the broad bay gives it a delightful sweep of sea breezes. October, November, December, January and February are quite comfortable months [True.—Cor.] and remind one of the Riviera. Most of these months are dry. March, April and May are the hottest, while June, July, August and September are the wettest, when it often commences to rain from a blue sky and keeps at it ten days at a time. When I first visited it, after having been in nearly all the other cities of the Far East, it impressed me as most businesslike, enterprising and attractive, Cut in twain by the Pasig River, which is spanned with several fine large bridges, it has a smart European business and residential section on the north side, and an old walled and official city, a parkway along the beach, called the Luneta, and another residential portion facing the bay, on the south side. It has numberless churches, many good educational institutions, including the noted Manila Observatory, famed for its weather predictions and measuring typhoons and earthquakes, museums, clubs — and breweries. Brilliantly lighted by electricity and traversed by tramways, it is quite metropolitan, but it lacks one great and essential feature of happiness and comfort for the traveler—a good hotel. [Hear! hear! The camp is superior.—Cor.] Food supply is ordinary, but can be easily improved. The chief complaints against Manila are from men who have never seen the city under other than the congested and unsettled conditions of war. ditions, a growing, bustling city of 00,000 population. When I first visited POPULATION AND PEOPLE.

Approximately, 8,000,000 people reside in the Philippines, divided into three m the Fallippines, divided into three principal divisions, the Togalos of Lu-zon, the Visayas of the central and southern islands, and Mussulmans of the Sulu Sultanate in the extreme south. They speak different dialects and have no common tongue but Spanish. The Togalos are today the most advanced and have the largest percentage of educated men. They are not unlike the Malays or Siamese, while their leading men might pass for Japanese. The Mestizos are an important element in and about Manila, about whom much is heard. They are half-bloods and composed of two chases, Spanish-native and Chinese-mative, with the latter largely in the majority, and numbering in all some forty thousand in Manila. Aside from the army of occupation of 20,000 men in Manila, there were, before the big inrush of Americans, about two bundred and fifty Britishers and Americans and one hundred Germans and other nationalities, aside from several thousand Spaniards. Of pure natives in Manila, in a total population of 300,000. I should estimate the number at 200,000.

CHINESE ARE NEEDED.

CHINESE ARE NEEDED. CHINESE ARE NEEDED.

Before the war there were some thirty-five thousand Chinese, but that number is now materially lessened. The question of Chinese is different from that in the United States. In the Philippines they are a necessity, both as laborers and business men, and all branches of trade and many industries will be seriously crippled unless they are allowed to come in. While I am opposed on principle to Chinese immigration into the States, where the labor competes with white Americans, I am decidedly in favor, from necessity, of their admission into the islands. CHARACTERISTICS OF THE

PEOPLE.

Now what of the people? What of the characteristics and possibilities?
Frankly, I take a favorable view of them. While many excellent authorities oppose my ideas I would not be fair unless I gave my honest opinion.
First, I believe that the good qualities outweigh the bad. While not as industrious or thrifty as the Japanese, they compare favorably in intelligence and sobriety with the Annamese, Siamese, Malays and Javanese. They are good-natured, kindiy disposed and generally polite. If they are sometimes lacking in honesty and morality, [They are.—Cor.] these faults are largely due to teaching and example. Opposite influences should correct the tendency. They are light-hearted, fond of music, dancing and amusements of all varieties, and the better off financially they are, the more fond of dress and show. The young educated men make good clerks, secretaries, stenographers and all-round assistants. In Manila many of them have made excellent doctors, dentists, lawyers, professors, petty officials and brokers. The average Fillipino is a good soldier. It suits him and he likes it. He may rasp a little under discipline, and not always carry himself erect, but he will follow his leader, is not a coward, and is proud of a gun and uniform. [Very.—Cor.]
He is sensitive in the matter of justice.
If he does wrong he will submit to punishment, but if unjustly punishe I will look for revenge. He is quite philosophical and never seems to sworry over anything. [A fair picture; though it is doubtful, according to my observation of the Filipino soldier in battle, whether he is a "good" one; certainly not under the American standard.—
Cor.]
QUALITIES OF SELF-GOVERN-

While what I say refers in general terms to the masses, I would add that there are sufficient instances of Fli-pinos becoming eminent scholars and developing qualities of statesmanship to warrant the belief that they may eventually be capable of self-govern-ment. Although I have great respect for Gen. Merritt's abilities as a solder and statesman I capacit secent his reand statesman, I cannot accept his reported statement that the Filipinos are incapable of self-government. That can only be proved by trial, and even if they should engage us in warfare, in their ambition for independence, such an unfortunate result does not warrant the conclusion that they cannot eventually evolve a good local government for themselves, but may even show qualities of resolution and strength that, rightly directed, will develop a strong autonomous state. [As these people exist today, they are clearly incapable of successful self-government.—Cor.] and statesman, I cannot accept his reland, both wooded and watered, more fertile and resourceful, more suited to support a great population, and still more capable of development. With the opening of the interior soon to follow building of railways, starting of rice, sugar, hemp and tobacco mills, digging of mines and general exploitation that must follow American occupation, the Philippines are sure to experience growth and progress second only to that of Japan.

CLIMATE OF THE PHILIPPINES. Of the climate I need only say that, in the cities, such as Manila, it is much like Hongkong, Bankok and Calcutta, Considering all in all, I do not sym-

For Aguinaldo, his supporters and sympathy and some respect. [A trifle too much, as events have proved.—Cor.] Having known him and most of his of-ficers well, and watched him during the ficers well, and watched him during the long period that has elapsed since I saw him put aboard the United States dispatch boat in Hongkong Harbor last May, by permission of Admiral Dewey and at the special instance of Consul-General Wildman, [Fatal blunder.—Cor.] for the direct purpose of going to Cavite to organize an army and temporary government, and make war on the Spaniards in coöperation with the American forces, it is difficult to condemn him without reserve, as so many have done.

I could and would have no sympathy

I could and would have no sympathy for him if he should conspire or take up arms against the United States, [Mr. Barrett will have to withdraw in good order from Arthrolaid and Arthrolaid and Arthrolaid and States, [Mr. Barrett will have to withdraw in good order from Arthrolaid and States] IM. He organized an army out of nothing, which he has now gradually developed into a force of 30,000 men, armed with modern rifles. He captured all Spanish garrisons on the Island of Luzon outside of Manila, so that when the Americans were ready to proceed against the city they were not delayed and troubled with a country campaign. [His alleged achievements in this regard have been greatly exaggerated.—Cor.] THE NATIVE GOVERNMENT.

naldo's willing supporters; a great proportion of them are opposed to the rebellion against American authority.—Cor.] He conducts himself personally with decorum, and is no more ostentatious than would be expected. Despite his faults and weaknesses, which, of course, he has, he can hardly be called the savage, undeserving, as well as unprincipled and ambitious native that he is often portrayed to be, unless all native leaders rising to his sudden prominence can be so described. [His "government" is not a republic; it is a simple oligarchy.—Cor.]

A POSSIBLE CONFLICT OF FORCES. If a conflict between the natives and Americans cannot be avoided, as is now feared by many, [It has come; it is right here.—Cor.] I think it will be eventually found that such collision was the result of constant friction and irritation between two forces watching each other and in doubt as to their respective future intentions, and not due to the intention or wishes of the leaders on either side. [The simple truth of this matter is that the brainless "barefoots" were "spoiling" for a fight, and they broke out like the rash.—Cor.] Aguinaldo himself is too shrewd and far-seeing to provoke a conflict, although he may be led on and controlled by those who are more ambitious, enthusiastic and reckless. [He is weak.—Cor.] I myself fear and even expect that actual fighting will be an inevitable issue of the present strained conditions, but such an end would be pitiful and mean great loss of life.

SETTLEMENT WITHOUT BLOOD—SHED. If a conflict between the natives and SHED.

May I humbly go on record as declaring that it would be far better for the United States to treat this leader and his people with caution and consideration, eventually obtaining the end to be desired without serious loss of life and great expense, rather than peremptorily demand his absolute surrender, be forced into a most unhappy conflict which would from its guerrilla nature mean the loss of hundreds of good lives, the expenditure of large sums of money the expenditure of large sums of money and, saddest and worst of all the development of a feeling of hatred and revenge toward Americans among eight millions of subject natives which the kind treat-ment of a hundred years cannot re-move. [All the consideration shown by Maj.-Gen. Otis, Admiral Dewey and the other American comanders has been move. [All the consideration shown by Maj.-Gen. Otis, Admiral Dewey and the other American comanders has been contemptuously spurned by Aguinaldo y los otros.—Cor.]

I have spoken this much of Aguinaldo because he is the leader of the Filipino insurgents who present the one unsettled problem resulting from the enforcing of the provisions of the treaty of peace. [The engine will not stop for the bull—alive.—Cor.]

In reviewing his work, I would have it plainly understood that I have been solely prompted by a sense of justice and fairness as I have seen the conditions on the ground, and that I am not supporting him (Aguinaldo) in any anti-American policy, or in steps and actions which may be manifestly wrong and against the American flag and government. My only prayer is that wise counsels may prevail to prevent further bloodstyed.

Mr. Barrett sagaciously saves himself by a timely edging statement made, as will be noted by the date of his lecture, before the outbreak of the Ellipting which as you will his lecture, before the outbreak of the his lecture, before the outbreak of the Filipino rebellion, which, as you will recollect, commenced doing business on the night of February 4, 1899. He then seeks to reinforce his views by quoting Consul-General Wildman at Hongkong, and the "experienced Consul-General Pratt at Singapore." who sul-General Pratt at Singapore," who "lent assistance" to the return of Aguinaldo to the Philippines in May, 1898. And a pretty mess they made of it—these mere business agents of the government (and the Consular Department is only a governmental business agency.) who mistook themselves for diplomats, and undertook, on their own motion and without in-structions, the grave work of diplomacy.

Mr. Barrett is a man of sense and observation, but he has committed an error in attempting to bulwark his positions by falling back upon these two American consular busy-bodies in the Orient. I desire to treat Mr. Barrett and his lecture with due respect, but I cannot say less than this.

The remainder of his lecture is under the respective sub-heads of "Dander the respective sub-neads of "Dan-gers Ahead Exaggerated," "Our Grave Responsibilities," "The Philip-pines Another Japan," "The Questlons of Customs Duties," "Policy and Pros-perity," "The Monroe Doctrine Still Stands," and "Kind Words for Siam," of which latter country he says: "With Bangkok only 1250 miles away from Manila, there is a certain amount of interest in this wonderful kingdom of Southeastern Asia that should not be allowed to flag. Having a popula-tion of 8,000,000, an extent of 200,000 square miles, vast areas of fertile and productive lands, an annual foreign trade of $40,000,000, of which Great which America ought to have onehalf; a king of acknowledged ability, who is earnestly trying to lead his subjects to a higher plane, and a people well disposed to foreigners, even if lazy from centuries of tropical life, and a growing capital city, Bangkok, of 400,000 population, which is at once one of the busiest and yet one of the most typical Asiatic cities, Siam indeed has a bright future, provided she takes advantage of the opportunities to progress, and Great Britain does not desert her in her tribulations. Siam and her government have faults and weaknesses, but ment have rathes and weaknesses, but they are retold often enough."

Mr. Barrett modestly said: "I am still a student, not a professor of Asiatic peoples and politics," and closed a well-considered and compre-

May we hope and pray that as events follow one after the other with the marvelous rapidity of modern times, and as one nation works with or against another, according as time and conditions mand, Great Britain and the United States may be always found contend-ing harmoniously and intrepidly together for the benefit of humanity's best interests and the legitimate expansion of Anglo-Saxon liberty, prog-ress and civilization. I beg of you, in judging American policy in the Far in judging American policy in the Far East, to remember that these closing days of chemineteenth century are times that try men's souls, when all nations are unsettled in policy and uncertain as to what the future will bring forth. There is confusion in the minds of the people and doubts in the thoughts of statesmen. The United States has her share of trial and tribulation. But there will soon be an end to it all, THE NATIVE GOVERNMENT.

Moreover, he has organized a government which has practically been administering the affairs of that greatisland since the American occupation of Manila, and which is certainly better than the former administration; he has a properly-formed Cabinet and Congress, the members of which in appearance and manners would compare favorably with Japanese statesmen. The United States has her share of trial and tribulation. But there will soon be an end to it all, when the sunshine of peace and certainty must break through the dark clouds of politics. Let us hope that this supporters include most of the prominent educated and wealthy natives—all of which prove possibilities of self-government that we must consider. It is a mistake to include these classes too generally among Agui-

A PREACHER DETECTIVE

APPEARANCES ARE DECEPTIVE IN J. G. GOODMAN'S CASE.

The Russian Sleuth's Priestly Looks
Not Due to Excessive Piety.
How He Fooled City Marshal
Baker at Long Beach.

John Gabriel Goodman, police detec tive, does not ascribe his priestly looks to simon-pure piety. Yet it is a fact that he was educated for the church, and that he spent a goodly portion of his youth in a theological seminary. At the close of his scholastic days he was sent by his patron. a distinguished Russian general, related to him by blood, to Jerusalem to collect and translate some ancient Hebrew manuscripts with a view to writing a life of Christ.

with some of the leaders of the revolution, and was able to communicate their plans to his government. Some of the people he informed upon, including several distinguished noblemen, were subsequently arrested and put to death in such a horrible manner that the young priest revolted at the sight and renounced his allegiance to despote. Making his way to London, and thence to American citizen, and in the course of time a prosperous business man of Tombstone, Ariz., he having at one time the largest jewelry store in the Territory. Reverses came, however, with the collapse of the Tombstone mining boom, and next Goodman found himself in Los Angeles, where he was some years ago appointed to the police force. He was soon promoted from patrolman to detective, a position for which, by reason of his early training, he is well adapted.

During his early career in Los Angeles, Mr. Goodman was a pillar of the Methodist Church, and superintendent of a Methodist Sunday-school. His early education and subsequent connection with religious work undoubtedly left an impression which accounts for his being so often taken for a clergyman. This impression is heightened by the clerical garb which he affects.

On account of his resemblance to a preacher Detective Goodman has had clergyman. This impression is heightened by the clerical garb which he affects.

On account of his resemblance to a preacher Detective Goodman has had many amusing experiences. Recently, while at Long Beach attending to some criminal business, Goodman had occasion to consult with the City Marshal of that village. Taking a room at one of the leading seaside hotels, he asked the landlord to send the City Marshal up to see him. Marshal Baker, who is a brother of Police Officer J. M. Baker of this city, responded promptly to the summons. He had never met Detective Goodman and had no idea what the detective wanted of him. All he knew about the man who had sent for him was that the landlord had told him that a preacher guest in room s'teen wished to se him. When the expectant City Marshal presented himself, Goodman put on his most benignant countenance and asked in the most reverential manner whether he would be allowed to preach in the streets of Long Beach. Marshal Baker eyed the alleged sky pilot closely and was not altogether satisfied that he was the kind of preacher to be trusted with the assembling of congregations in the public streets. Goodman looked to the worthy Marshal like a religious fakir who would be apt to spread seditious doctrines and preach for revenue rather than for the good he might do the people. The cautious official hesitated to grant a privilege to a man who would be likely to abuse it, so he inquired cautiously:

'What denomination do you repre What difference does that make,

"What difference does that make. I would like to know?" replied the detective-cleric indignantly. "Is not this a land of religious freedom, and is not one denomination entitled to the same privileges as another, even in Long Beach?"

This was a puzzler for the conscientious City Marshal. He saw the justness of the question, but was still not satisfied as to the ministerial standing of the applicant. He got around the difficulty by hastily explaining that he merely asked as to his creed out of curlosity; that it really made no difference what church he belonged to or what doctrine he preached; but he could not preach in the streets of Long Beach, as gatherings in the streets were forbidden by city ordinance. He Beach, as gatherings in the streets were forbidden by city ordinance. He advised the supposed preacher to hire advised the supposed preacher to hire a hall.

Then Detective Goodman introduced himself to the astonished Long Beach official and proved his worldly-mindedness by inquiring whether there was any place in the seaside city where two hard-worked minlons of the law might refresh themselves with a glass of foamy lager and have a quiet game of penuchle.

The preacher joke is one which Detective Goodman is fond of playing. His experience with the Long Beach Marshal is but one of many instances in which he has perpetrated it successfully.

The trotters have commenced to go East preparatory to entering in some of the big events the coming season. The Great Western Circuit for trotters and pacers opens at Denver in June, and the entries from California show that the Golden State will be well represented.

that the Golden State will be well represented.

Last week Edelman and Hodges's stable shipped a carload of trotters and pacers to Denver. Among those sent were G. W. McKinney, trotter, marked 2:11½; Our Lucky, trotter, marked 2:11½; a green stallion, full brother to G. W. McKinney; You Bet, pacer, record of 2:14½; Bill Nye, pacer, record of 2:14½, and a green pacer which is said to be very fast. The Los Angeles Country Club's Tournament.

The Los Angeles Country Club has had another three days' tournament, open to members of the Club, which has been very successful from every point of view. While the scores made have not been up to those formerly made by members, yet the interest manifested, the number of entriess made and the social features have made it the most successful tournament given by the club. The tournament commenced Friday afternoon, when the ladies' handicap championship play was started. It was for 18 holes, and a cup and medal were the prizes offered. The cup for the best gross score was won by Mrs. Foster, while the medal for the best handicap were to Mrs. W. S. Porter.

The local wheelmen are training for the annual Santa Monica road race to be run on Decoration day, May 30. All the old favorites have entered, together with a bunch of new ones.

When Multnomah county, Oregon, gets through collecting the bicycle tax there will be path money to burn. It is estimated that there are between 5000 and 6000 wheels in the county. This should raise a net fund of nearly $6000, and already wheelmen are discussing the best way to use this money.

Lawson, the "Terrible Swede," has presented a proposition to the Sacramento Wheelmen to go twenty miles on a wheel against twenty running horses, ridden half-mile stretches and by one rider. The novel idea has been referred to the Race Committee.

Something of a sensation was created in the League of American Wheelmen circles in New York City when it became known that in the last week the league had lost more than 9000 members. For many months the organization has been losing members at the rate of 2000 a month, but the figures received at the L.A.W. headquarters on Tuesday were startling. They showed that in one week the membership drop was 9139, of which loss New York contributed 1554. Pennsylvania 1686, and Massachusetts 1879. The total league membership to date is 65,418, a loss of nearly 40,000 in a little more than a year.

It was his original intention to leave McKean and Zimmer in Cleveland, asked to be placed with the Browns, and they pleaded so hard that the manager consented. Accordingly the St. Louis catchers will be O'Connor, Zimmer, Criger and be Voung, Cuppy, Powell, Jones, Bates, Sudhoff and McBride. Tebeau will play first base and will put Childs, McKean and Wallace in the other infield positions. Burkett, Griffin and Stenzel will take care of the outfield. Collectively this team is much stronger than last year's Clevelands, especially in pitching and batting. The Clevelands will be made up a big deficit in Cleveland out of large profits in St. Louis. Harrisonville, Mo. My Dear Sirs: I am gratified to find that Hudyan is fully up to my expectations. I have taken it only one month, and it has relieved me of many of those distressing symptoms. Judging by the progress I am making, in less than another month I shall be entirely cured. Your Hudyan has certainly worked like a charm in my case, after many other remedies have failed, and I shall take great pleasure in recommending it. I no longer lave that feeling of weakness, and am working every day. My nervousness is all gone, and I can eat and sleep well. You deserve great credit in being able to compound such a valuable medicine. The happiness that I feel is due solely to Hudyan. Very truly,

E. B. DIFFEN.

Dear Doctors: I believe in your Hudyan, since it has cured me of the headaches and weakness that I suffered so many years, and shall use my influence in placing other sufferers in the way of a cure. I feel better now than I have in teff years, and your valuable Hudyan is what made the change. My trouble was of a nervous nature, but it is entirely cured. I have not one symptom that I can complain of now. My bowels act fine, and I can eat what I please and it don't distress me. Have not noticed any sediment since the third week of taking Hudyan. I am going to speak many a good word for Hudyan. Very gratefully, CHAS, L. WEISENSTEIN. Columbia, Ill. 0

Hudyan Doctors: Dear Doctors—I have had many dealings with the medical profession and with medicines, and never before have I received the satisfaction that your Hudyan gave me. It does not cost much, and it does the work. I have spent me. It does not cost much, and it does the work. I have spent hundreds of dollars in looking for a cure for my nervous complaint, and am only sorry that I did not know of Hudyan long ago. It would have saved me lots of money and lots of suffering. Your medicine has cured me perfectly, has given me peace in mind and body. I am not one bit nervous any more, and have no more of those severe headaches. I feel greatly indebted to y u for your valuable medicine.

Yours very truly,

BIG SCARE INVESTIGATED BY THE

for Excitement, Except oung Woman's Joke-Death of B. Frank Wood-Dr. McAllister's Funeral-Arrest for Disturbing the Peace-Bicyclist Nabbed.

PASADENA. April 9.— [Regular Correspondence.] They have just emerged from a season of tremendous bugaboo at North Pasadena. Health Officer F. F. Rowland of this city received yesterday a letter from a physician up there, reading as follows: "The community up here are all excited over a case in this neighborhood. I know nothing about it personally, but have been urged to write to you in regard to it. The story is that a young lady on North Raymond avenue returned from Los Angeles all broken out with sores; when asked what alled her, she replied that the doctor in Los Angeles had called it varioloid, and had told her to remain in, but she had disobeyed him and come to North Pasadena. She has attended church and other public places, and people are scared to death."

people are scared to death."

Health Officer Rowland made a prompt investigation and found that his medical friend, together with other citizens, had been hoased by the thoughtless prattle of a young woman who was trying to be funny. The you g person referred to had come homo from Los Angeles with a harmless eruption of ordinary pimples on her face. As an attempt at joking she told people at church and other public places that sife had contracted varioloid in Los Angeles, as the doctor subsequently reported. She told this story so many times and with such apparent seriousness that the neighborhood believed it, and the panic grew apace. When the Health Officer called she owned up and apologized. She was sincerely sorry for her prank, and her parents were mortified. The Health Officer ordered her to stay at home from church Sunday, and keep in till the facts could be published and the scare turned off. Every rumor of this sort here has proven to be equally baseless. A telegram was received here this after-oon announcing the death at 2:30 p.m. of Frank Wood, who left this city for Phil-R. Frank Wood, who left this city for Philadelphia last Wednesday. It is supposed he died on the train just before arriving in that city, or immediately after his arrival. Mr. Wood was the owner of one of the finest residences in Pasadena, having purchased about a year ago the Rowan place on "ass' Colorado street. He had previously spent several seasons here, and was well known. He came here for his health and was getting on well till a few months ago, when he began to fall very rapidly. He was anxious to get back among, his friends in the East, and to consult a Philadelphia physician, so he essayed the trip with the above result. His wife and a physician from his old home, who had come out here for the purpose, were on the train. He bade good-by to his three children, two sisters and other relatives here last Wednesday, they then expecting to join him soon in the East. Mr. Wood was about 40 years of age, and the president of a heavy shoe-manufacturing corporation.

CITY TRUSTEES INDORSED.

Among those who have discussed worldly things today the principal topic has been the success of last night's big "hurrah" formunicipal waterworks, and the handsome indorsement given to the city government by the meeting. It passed as thorough a "vote of confidence" as ever a municipal body received. Business men comment today on the fact that while in so many cities there is a crusade against "municipal misrule," and the citizens are up in arms ragainst their city officials, the people of Pasadena emphatically commend their City Council, indorse what they have done, and strengthen their hands for the furtherance of their plans. It is spoken of as a very happy state of affairs when the City Trustees have stood so firmly and courageously by the expressed wishes of the people that the people now pass a vote of 'well done, and go ahead." The Citizens' Water Committee and City Trustees have pushed along shoulder to shoulder. They have given many days of hard and conscientious work to the public behalf, without any compensation whatever—and the hay is not in the barn yet.

THE POPPY TRAVEL.

The "poppy travel" on the electric road today has been enormous. Every car to Altadena this forenoon and early this afternoon dena this forenoon and early this afternoon was crowded, and passengers hung onto the steps, and the later cars back were in the same condition. The larger part of these excursionists came from Los Angeles, and the afternoon cars to the city were packed till they could hold no more, nearly every traveler carrying a giorious burden of yellow. "There was one car this afternoon that I know brought down all the popples there were up there," exclaimed the local ticket agent this evening. There was a procession of teams from the poppy fields, too, and some of them were decorated as if for a fleata. The foothills were more populous today than they had been for years.

Loud, who has been watching recent shipments, at once attached the sacks and found a very large number of fish to be less in length than the nine and one-half inches required for legal handling under the State fish and game laws. The fishermen were at once arraigned in a justice's court, and were put under bonds of $50 each and given until Tuesday afternoon to plead. It is hoped by those backing the warden that the shipment of crawfish in wholesale lots can be stopped. The fish go to canneries, and it is thought that, like the abalone, the crawfish will soon die out in the places where a few years ago they were so numerous.

SANTA ANA, April 9.—[Regular Correspondence.] A special meeting of the members of the Board of City Trustees was held Friday evening for the purpose of ratifying the agreement for the construction of the sewer extensions recently ordered by the board. After some discussion it was decided to abandon the idea of extending the sewer system out West Fifth street to the schoolhouse, as the work was considered impracticable, and a resolution was passed recommending to the Board of Education that the Fifth-street school building be moved farther into town. The clerk was instructed to notify residents of the city who had been detected using water for sprinkling purposes out of hours, and for running open hase, that a fine would be imposed upon them at once, and that they would be required to call at the office of the City Clerk and settle the same. If this request is not compiled with, the water will be shut off from them, and will not be turned on again until the fine is paid, together with the costs of making the change.

Judge Ballard Saturday rendered a decision that is of special interest throughout Southern California. It was in the case of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company vs. Anson D. Lamb. A patent from the government had been secured on the land, and the government officials therefore refused to do anything for the railroad company. The sult was brought in the hope that the patent from the government might be offset, and the railroad company be put in possession of the land, but Judge Ballard decided that Lamb had a good title to the land.

Street Superintendent Nash and City Engineer Kellogg made an inspection of the sewered streets in Santa Ana Saturday, with a view of estimating the probable cost of settling the trenches with water. It is proposed to relieve the sewer contractors of this work, providing an agreement can be arrived at as to the cost of the same, which will be deducted from the amount to be paid the contractors by the city for the construction of the system. If this arrangement is made the sewer system will soon be thoroughly investigated, and if found all right will be accepted by the city, the settling of the trenches to be done by the city at leisure during the summer months.

Early Arrival of Bathing Season.

Liquor License Ordinance.

SANTA MONICA, April 9.—[Regular Correspondence.] The bathing season has arrived about a month ahead of time, and if both the weather and the ocean keep fairly warm, there is no prospect that the season will be held back to wait for the time table. Surf bathers have been in evidence for three or four days at the rate of about one hundred per day. There has, within the past month, been a great change in the temperature of the ocean, as it appears to a bather. A month ago the water seemed as celd as in winter, and the chief pleasure of going in was in getting out of it again and experiencing the exhilaration which followed. The water now is scarcely as warm as in July and August, but its degree of warmth is sufficient to make bathing in it almost as comfortable as it will be then. It is thought that there must have been a change in some of the minor ocean currents so as to bring warmer water along the Los Angeles county coast. The change in the water temperature has been observed not only here, but down by Terminal Island and Long Beach as well.

A stiff breeze blew from the west today, but it was not cold enough to cause disconfort to the large number of people seated in front of the band stand on the bluff during the afternoon band oncent. CITY OF PRESCOTT HAS A BRACE OF SUICIDES,

Three Ancient Mummies Found Within a Crypt in the Upper Verde Valley - The Crowned King's Riches,

PRESCOTT (Ariz.,) April 7 .- [Reguar Correspondence.] This city has been the scene of two sensational suicides during the past few days. One was that of Mrs. George L. Meyer, who shot her-self through the heart. The deed was in the very presence of her husband, with whom she had had trouble. The man was in custody for a while, sus-pected of murder, but letters left by woman cleared him. The couple had been in Prescott only four days, coming from Los Angeles, though the woman had before for several years onducted the Bellevue Hotel in this city. A former husband, named Anderson, is resident in Southern California, and two daughters and two young sons by the prior marriage live in Los Angeles. Anderson was formerly a freighter in this vicinity.

The second suicide was that of a German shoemaker named Jezyk. He chose hanging, being found in the early morning dependent from a tree near the railorad track west of Prescott. He

For a while it was locally believed that John Ayers, who died Saturday withe Sisters' Hospital, had sought his own death with morphine. The rumor was incorrect. Ayers died from acute inflammatory rheumatism. He was a horseman, with a ranch at Pine Springs near the Grand Cañon. For about ten years he lived at Mesa City, near Phoenix. He was especially well known through having brought to Arizona a number of the best blooded horses ever known in the Southwest.

ARIZONA MUMMIES.

The Upper Verde Valley is unique among the districts dear to the Arizona archeologist from the fact that within it are to be found the mummified remains of a race of cliff dwellers, undoubtedly the last to inhabit the hill-sides of Arizona. While the Verde Cliff dwellings are generally considered of comparatively modern origin, it is nevertheless a fact that. in the Verde Cañon, above the mouth of Deadman Creek, are to be found dwellings lavacovered from the flow of long-extinct volcanoes. A number of mummles have been taken from these cliff cyrles, to be exhibited throughout the country. They are all of pygmies, with cranial formation distinctly Mongolian. Three mummles have just been discovered by John Love in a hillside near old Camp Verde. They were found in a crypt dug into the sold rock and tightly sealed by a masonry wall. The interior had been neatly plastered or cemented. The mummies are so small as to appear to be those of children. They were wrapped in a single cotton blanket, which was intact, and has been saved, except for the portion that was between the bödles and the ground. It is usual for all cloth, and even wood, found in such crypts, to crumble on being exposed to the air, but this blanket's texture is still firm. A string of rough beads, comprising a necklace thirty-six inches long, was about all else found. Love, who is a persistent searcher after relics of the ancient occupation, has a large collection of antiquities, by him valued very highly. Dr. Miller, superintendent of the Territorial Insane Asylum, has also been an industrious delver in the cliffs of the Verde, and through his work has secured one of the best museum collections known. This collection he has donated to the Territory, with the provision attached that it shall be held at the Territory shall provide for it room at the new capitol.

in double canvas bags and is being shipped East. In order that not an ounce be lost, even the wagons that transport the ore are lined with canvas. The rich vein is only eight inches wide, but the ore from it seems half gold, running $164,000 to the ton. It is in the middle of an immense chimney of high grade ore, that measures in a cross-cut over 100 feet in widht.

The Red Rock mill is treating forty tons of ore a day, with results eminently satisfactory to the owners. The ledge being worked in the mine varies from eight inches to three feet in width, enough ore being ready for stoping to run the mill a year.

The Little Jessie mine in Chaparral Gulch, near Big Bug, nas been known for years to miners as one of the best properties in Arizona. The ores artrich, and, though decidedly pyritic in character, are readily reduced to within a fraction of their values in an ordinary stamp mill. John S. Jones, who opened up the mine did or re-

He failed and was attached, a curious condition for the owner of one of the most productive properties in the West. The mine has just been incorporated. In the corporation Mr. Jones is joined by three of the leading lawyers of Prescott, R. E. Morrison, United States District-Attorney, Joseph Morrison and E. M. Sanford. It is now believed the Little Jessie will be steered clear of the legal shoals on which it before so frequently grounded.

The material for the new Capitol at Phoenix is to come from Kirkland Valley, on the line of the Santa Fé, Prescott and Phoenix Railway, which will furnish ready transportation to the very Capitol grounds. W. S. President F. M. Murphy of the Santa Fé. Prescott and Phoenix Railway, who has been spending several months in the Bahamas for his health, left Nassau Tuesday for New York, whence he will return to Arizona.

There is a probability that the lodge will erect an operahouse, in combination with lodge and clubrooms. Several of the leading members are working on the project, and have secured offers of financial interest aggregating almost the sum needed. A branch of the Travelers' Protective Association is to be organized in Prescott by traveling men who make this city headquarters. It will be the first in the Territory.

Jerome has assumed the dignity of municipal organization, and its peace is now assured under the guardianship of City Marshal and ex-Rough Rider Frank Ferguson. By a telephone line the camp is now on speaking terms with Prescott. The Jerome company starts with a patronage of fifty 'phones, and is to be extended to all the principal mines of the vicinity. The Prescott City Council has abandoned the idea of water storage, but, with the funds realized through the sale of city bonds, will double the canacity of the city reservoir. A bedrock dam will be thrown across the bed of the creek whence comes the water supply, the cost of the work to be only $2000. Sewerage, it was agreed, would cost about $75,000. Only a single bid has been received for the bonds. It is for only 96 cents.

Discovery of the Lee Placers.
WILLIAMS (Ariz.,) April 7.—[Reguar Correspondence. 1 Two miles east of Williams there is a natural basis with an area of 103 acres, with walls that will allow the storage of twenty feet of water, a matter of about a billion gallons. Around about is an immense watershed. Its drainage is to be diverted into the natural reservoir through canals and pipes. Upon this diversion system 100 men are now busily employed. The work is backed by what is known as the Williams Water Company, just incorporated with capital stock of $50,000. The stockholders are few, comprising J. C. Brown and J. M. Dennis, heads of two great lumber milling concerns; Max Salzman, a local merchant; C. E. Boyce, a local capitalist, and E. M. Doe, a Flegstaff lawyer. The new reservoir is expected to reinforce the present two reservoirs, built by the Santa Fé Railway, and by the Saginaw Lumber Company, to the point of the utmost demand for municipal, railways in the beautiful transfer of the same tra the utmost demand for municipal, rail-way or lumber mill uses. The railroad reservoir at Williams has been called upon to furnish water for the road for 100 miles to the westward, and only enough for sixty days' consumption now remains behind the dam. Cataract Creek, which at times runs enormous volumes of water, is to be diverted into the new reservoir, insuring an amply supply in the future.

Several cowboys claim to have discovered the old Mormon placer diggings on the Colorado River, in the northwestern portion of the Navajo reservation. These diggings are famed principally through the fact that they were known to John D. Lee. who worked upon them two years following his flight from Utah, after the Mountain Meadows massacre. Their location was generally known to all as "somewhere down the river below Lee's ferry." but many years of patient searching have hitherto fesiled to discover them. There is nothing definite about the new find, but the news is believed authentic.

New Well Gives Ilig Promise in Santa Fe Field.

FULLERTON, April 9.—[Regular Correspondence.] During the week just closed the Santa Fe's oil wells in this field alone have produced 1190 barrels, averaging 170 barrels a day. Indications are that the wells now being put down by the company will increase this production at least one-fourth. When these wells are completed a cleaning just of all wells in operation will take place before more new wells are started. No. 13, now down 1120 feet, gives the greatest promse, and experts are enthusiastic over it. The prediction is made that—it will prove the nost productive well in Southern California. Flere is an excellent showing of oil in No. 2 to 1000 feet. This well, it is expected, well to give the great two wells itarted. Nos. 14 and 18, are down 230 and 260 etc. respectively.

The Loftus Company has struck a big flow function in the No. 2 well, at 1000 feet. At bis location water is almost as desirable with two splendid signs and are going down treadily. At Puente steady increase in protection is reported. The new machine shop, then is being filled with valuable maninery, will shortly be able to do all the ork of the wells.

SAN BERNARDINO, April 9.—[Regular Correspondence.] The city election will be held tomorrow. The polls in the five city wards will open at sunrise and close at 5 o'clock p.m.. The campaign has been conducted quietly, and in good temper, but there has been systematic electioneering on both sides and the result cannot be preoth sides, and the result cannot be dicted. The candidates to be voted for, be-sides the regular city officials, are those for two members of the Board of Education and three members of the Board of City Trustees.

ON THE LUMBER DOCK.

INSPECTOR'S TASK A DIFFICULT AND IMPORTANT ONE.

Must Know at a Glance the Dimer sions and Kind of Each Piece His Figures Determine Quantities and Values.

intermittent puffing of the donkey engine and the busy cries of the men as the slingloads of lumber were rapidly transferred from vessel to wharf, presented an active scene on one of the San Pedro docks. As the lumber, piece by piece, was carried back into the yard, to be stored, or at once loaded on cars for shipment in-land, a man might be seen standing near the spot where it was being dropped. He did not seem busy like the others about him. In his hand was a little book in which he made frequent marks with a pencil. The marks were very short and straight, and a closer examination of the pages seemed to throw no light on their caracter otherwise than to indicate that they were a simple tally. That man must have an easy time of it making pencil strokes," remarked they were a simple tally.

"That man must have an easy time of it making pencil strokes," remarked a visitor to a lumber dealer, who stood near the place.

"Your idea is a very common one, but it is far from the truth," said the dealer. "His position is one of the most difficult and at the same time one of the most difficult and at the same time one of the most difficult and at the same time one of the most difficult and at the same time one of the most difficult and at the same time one of the most difficult and at the same time one of the most difficult and at the same time one of the most difficult and at the same time one of the most difficult and at the same time one of the most difficult and at the same time one of the most difficult and the same time one of the same and the saler, and both the values and quantities of whole cargoes of lumber depend on his word.

"One-half of the lumber inspector's wages is paid by the person or company selling the lumber, and the other half is paid by the purchaser. A man must have years of experience beford' he can fill the position. Not only is he required to keep a record of the amount of lumber, and the various kinds taken from the vessel, but he is also responsible for the speed at which the cargo is discharged. The first part of the lumber taken from a vessel is the deck load. That is usually shoved over onto the dock by the vessel's regular crew, and from there removed by the employes of the lumber yard. When the taking-off of the deckload is completed, the crew is employed at getting the lumber out of the hold, and from there it is lifted over onto the dock with the aid of longshoremen and a donkey engine.

"Whichever way the lumber may come from the vessel the inspector must see every piece of it, judge accurately of its three dimensions, its kind and its 'quality, and make the proper memerandum, so that the fact will appear on his book. That is where the importance of having an experienced man for the position is demonstrated.

"As a rule, the lumber is tallied

I'the matter of dimensions alone requires extensive experience. The inspector must be able to tell at a glance, and without any measurement other than with his eye, just how many feet long a piece is, and also what is its width and thickness. Lengths vary from short ones up to twenty-four feet, and the inspector must tell at the first glance within two or three inches of the exact number of feet in the length. Widths and thicknesses, and combinations of widths and thicknesses, varying from one inch up, must also be judged at the first glance to within, an eighth of an inch.

"But the matter of dimensions is only a part of the difficult task. The inspector must also tell the kind and quality at a glance. Among the kinds brought here by vessel are the Douglas fir, red fir, yellow fir, Oregon pine, white cedar, red cedar, spruce, Humboldt redwood and sequoia redwood. That list does not include oak and other hard woods which are brought from the East by rail, and which he is sometimes called on to inspect.

"When his eye has caught the

which he is sometimes called on to inspect.
"When his eye has caught the dimensions and the kind, probably the most difficult thing of all is to instantly determine the quality. Generally speaking, lumber cut in a stated style is graded into Nos. 1, 2 and 3. No. 1 is straight-grained and free from knots, gum or sap. No. 2 is somewhat knotty and otherwise defective,

Absolutely Pure

Made from most highly refined grape cream of tartar.

Makes pure, delicious, wholesome food.

and contains knots and other blemishes. No. 3 is still more defective. Among the varieties that are graded in that way are the 'common rough,' the 'select.' the 'rough clear,' and the 'surface' lumber. The last of these is subdivided into the 'clear,' which is perfect: the 'common,' which is knotty and pitchy, and the 'sappy.' which is of still poorer quality. No. 1 of the 'rough clear' has the vertical or edge grain, which wears well, and which is not readily slivered. Another variety of 'rough clear' is known as 'slash,' which comes in three grades of horizontal grain. Among the many other varieties to be tallied are the numerous styles of weather-boarding for houses, and of beaded ceiling for interior work. There is also the inspection of lath and shargles, which come in different qualities.

"Cargoes of sailing vessels are stowed without much regard for the work the inspector is to have when the lumber is taken off. It is therefore not at all unlikely that when it comes from the vessel it will be very much mixed. In that event the inspector's task is a very trying one for the mark which represents one piece may have to be made on a different part of a different page from the mark that represents the next piece, and so on. If the lumber is coming off very rapidly the inspector finds it as much as he can do to perform his task accurately. If necessary the inspector orders that the speed of discharging be slackened so that he may keep a correct tally.

"Sometimes the inspection makes" a curately. If necessary the inspector orders that the speed of discharging be slackened so that he may keep a correct taily.

"Sometimes the inspection makes a big difference in the price paid for lumber. Instances have been known in which the inspector's figures on a single cargo varied $1000 from the value as stated in the invoice.

"Steam schooners having mixed cargoes are usually loaded in an orderly way, so that pieces of a kind are together. That enables the inspector to tally it more rapidly, and makes it possible to discharge the boat in a shorter time, which is an important litem for the cost of running one of that class of steamers is estimated at $100 per day. Sometimes the work of discharging may be facilitated by having two inspectors employed on the same vessel. The limit of possibility for one inspector is about 10,000 feet, or 1000 pieces of lumber per hour. "Saling vessels, in order to successfully compete in the carrying trade, must have cargo capacities of not less than $50,000 feet each, except in special, cases. where lighter-draught vessels for shallow river navigation or something of the like is required. Steam schooners, in order to be profitable, at the present rates, should carry 300,000 feet and up. The proportionate cost of lumber transportation is less on bigger cargoes. On account of the great expense of operating a steam schooner it is reckoned that not more then three days should be occupied either in loading or in discharging. The daily cost of the average lumber salling vessel is estimated at two-fifths of that of the average lumber salling vessel is estimated at two-fifths of that of the sold in Southern Celifornia at a reasonable profit at prices lower than those which rule now."

a reasonable profit at prices lower than those which rule now."
